A Child-Centered Service Framework
For the Future

Domestic violence and homeless shelter systems have historically eroded around the needs of adults, both physically and psychologically. With an estimated 2.5 million homeless children in the United States and 100 million homeless children worldwide, new models for shelters with deep protective factors for children and families are needed. Thanks to the generosity of our Lotus Endowment Fund founders and in collaboration with many local and federal government, volunteers and supporters, Lotus Village was developed as a new and fully-centered model for shelters, a transforming prototype for the future that puts children first. Shifting us to 500 signify, it is one of the largest shelters exclusively serving women and children in the United States, with comprehensive supportive services for women and deep protective factors for children and youth designed to transform the trauma of homelessness into a window of opportunity.

Offering a unique platform for innovation, showcasing best practices and service delivery research, Lotus Village is able to provide specialized programming tailored to children and youth of all ages, including: evidence-based individual assessments of their social and emotional well-being, cognitive development and trauma histories; intensive child and family therapies designed to rebuild bonds of attachment so often broken by violence and trauma; individual maternal counseling and group parenting classes; our universally accessible facilities: core is taken to ensure children and families are welcomed, supported, nurtured and uplifted throughout their stay. From our trauma-informed intake sandwich, children’s playroom, and play spaces with petrochemical furnishings in every common room to residential units outfitted with changing tables, cribs and nesting toddler beds.

Prenatal and pediatric care, well baby checks and dental services are provided onsite for children and families by Jessie Trice Community Health Systems in the Lotus Village health clinic. The Village also includes the Micky and Madeleine Arison Family Foundation Children’s Wellness Center, a social children’s center with 8 classrooms for infants and toddlers operated by United Way Center for Excellence in Early Education, along side therapeutic services in the Cardinal Foundation Play Therapy Rooms provided by the Lotus House clinic team. Thanks to many community volunteers, the enriched resources and educational supports at Lotus House include onsite after school programming, Kid’s yoga, healing arts and activities, a myriad of terraced field trips, and community wide tender loving care from birthdays to holidays throughout the year.

For children and families experiencing homelessness, whether due to violence, medical or mental health issues, disabilities, economic issues or other special needs, Lotus Village offers a multifaceted, child-centered framework for providing a trauma-informed, child-centered approach. Lotus Village is designed to support children in developing resilience and deep protective factors vital to improving their overall health and well-being. This includes ensuring the safety of the lives of sheltered children and their mothers into a window of opportunity to heal, strengthen, and their future.

Your support makes this important work possible and is a life changing investment in our future. Thank you!

Violence is a leading cause of homelessness for women, and in some cases the lives of women experiencing homelessness. All too often, impoverished women and their children are forced to remain in abusive relationships because they lack safe emergency shelter with supportive services, tools and resources to heal, reclaim their lives and move forward.

Distinguished by its holistic approach, Lotus House offers intensive child and family services, physical, mental health, dental, and mental health needs, counseling, and healing arts, such as yoga, Reiki, sound baths, massage, and visual arts workshops and activities, all designed to heal and give voice to those who have survived by being invisible. Equally important, women are provided empowering pathways to achieving greater financial self-sufficiency, with educational and vocational programs, high school equivalency classes and financial literacy to job readiness training, resume preparation, and individual employment assistance.

Holistic healing and empowerment are deeply interwoven in the David and Lesa Center Culinary Center, the new home of the art, working classroom kitchen in Lotus Village, which serves over 1,000 nutritious meals each day, locally pressured by the culinary team and students. A center for learning, shared community and empowerment on every level, the Culinary Center offers basic life skills and cooking classes, a food bank, beneficial certifications, job training and internships to prepare women and youth to succeed in life and the work world. With the help of community partners like Hungry Harvest, Eck’s Baker, Glory’s, spices, Germany’s Nutrition and more and more, and thanks to David and Lesa Center, the Culinary Center will nourish and uplift bodies, minds and spirits for generations to come with fresh, tasty and beautiful meals containing all the ingredients necessary for children and families to heal, grow, thrive and blossom into who they are truly meant to be.
